NOTICE BEFORE MAKING DEED.

To Samuel Scott:
As the owner of 80 acres of land located in the First Civil District of Cumberland county, Tennessee, bounded on the north by Schmidt, on the south by Tanner, east by Pugh, and west by Schmidt, you are hereby notified that unless you appear at my office, in the court house, in the town of Crossville, Tennessee, on or before Friday, the 30th day of April, 1915, and pay state, county and all other taxes assessed against said land, together with all interest and costs incurred, including this notice of publication, as now provided by law, your right to redeem same shall be forever barred, and deed to the same will be at once executed by me to T. A. Tanner, the purchaser of said land.

Witness my hand at office this February 2, 1915.
T. F. Brown,
Circuit Court Clerk.

THE LIVER REGULATES THE BODY—A SLUGGISH LIVER NEEDS CARE.

Someone has said that people with chronic liver complaint should be shut up away from humanity, for they are pessimists and see through a "glass darkly." Why? Because mental states depend upon physical states. Biliousness, headaches, dizziness and constipation disappear after using Dr. King's New Life Pills. 25c at your druggist.

BURKE.

We have had two weeks of fine weather and the farmers are very busy.

The eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Swafford has been seriously ill with pneumonia, but is improving.

Watt Harris is on the sick list.

James Hinch and wife, of Jewett, have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. J. R. Parham, but returned home Sunday.

A. R. Burnett, of Litton, visited G. F. Swafford Sunday.

J. D. Turner returned home Sunday from near Cold Springs, where he has been harvesting his corn crop for the year 1914. He reports several farmers not through gathering their crops and very much behind with their work.

The infant child of Steward Hinch and wife, has been sick with typhoid, but is much improved.

W. C. and J. L. Brown recently returned from Kingston, where they went for medical aid.

FATHER GOOSE FOR FARMERS.

By Don Allen.

Jack Sprat raised hogs so fat
Not one of them was lean.
He sent them into market and
He made five thousand clean.

Jack and Jill went up the hill.
Both were highly elated.
The auto they run is a costly one,
And it never hesitated.

Little Bo Peep had so many sheep
She didn't know where to fold them.
So one fine day she sent them away
And at the stock yards sold them.

Little Bo Peep a fortune did reap
And invested it all in Chickens.
Every fellow she knows comes round
To propose.

They bother her like the dickens.

It is proposed that a war medal of uniform design, and bearing the simple inscription, "I was there," should be distributed among all the allied troops.

ENFORCE DOG LAW.

More Sheep and Fewer Worthless Dogs
Should Be the Aim.

According to reports received by the Department of Agriculture from the Circuit Court Clerk in every county in the state, the number of female dogs registered in Tennessee for the year 1914 was 1678. According to reports from the same sources, the total number registered in the state since the law was enacted in 1907 is 24,105.

The act of 1907 was passed on the demand of farmers in the state who were engaged in the sheep industry or who wanted to engage in it but were deterred on account of the ravages of the cur dog.

The act requires the registration of female dogs in the office of the Circuit Court clerk of the county and the payment of a fee of $3, which after deducting the cost of collars, tags, books, etc., is to be turned over to the county trustee and converted into the common school fund, and prorated as other school funds coming into the hands of the trustee.

The act also makes it unlawful for the owner of an unregistered female dog to allow it to run at large. A violation of the provision of the act is a misdemeanor, and the Circuit and Criminal Judges of the state are required by the act to give this law in charge to the grand juries.

LAW NOT ENFORCED

The law is not enforced in a large section of the state. One county, Marion, reports that there has not been, since the law was enacted, a registration of a female dog. Madison county reports the largest total number, 800. Shelby county, the largest in population in the state, reports no registrations for 1914, and only 11 since the passage of the act. In Davidson county, none was registered in 1914, and a total of 720 was reported. Knox county reports none for 1914, and 131 total. Hamilton county reports none for 1914, and a total of 263.

Of the amount collected by the Circuit Court Clerks, about $2 out of the $3 is turned over to the trustees, which would mean that since the law was enacted the school fund has benefited about $48,000.

If the law had been rigidly enforced, as it should have been, not only because it was the law but also because it would have been of great benefit to the sheep industry of the state, the school fund would have benefited by three or four times as much as received.

According to the Federal Census of 1910, there were in Tennessee 795,033 sheep in the state. With its adaptability to this profitable industry, there should be four times this number in the State, and if the law already on the statute books was enforced, and more stringent laws in regard to sheep killing dogs enacted, the industry would revive and Tennessee would be one of the leading sheep and wool producing states in the Union.

Tennessee is well calculated to be a great sheep producing state and has advantages possessed by few of the states of the Union. The rich valleys of East Tennessee, the vast plateau of the Cumberland Mountains, the Highland Rim of Middle Tennessee, the plateau of West Tennessee, offer exceptional opportunities and advantages for the industry.

Farmers and live stock men of the state realize the opportunities and advantages offered by natural conditions such as water, grazing, mild climate, etc., and many would engage in the industry who are not now interested, if it were not for the fear of the ravages of the sheep-killing dog.

That Tennessee is capable of producing as good sheep as any state in the Union, and much cheaper than most of them, cannot be questioned, and it is to be hoped that the law requiring the registration of female dogs will be more rigidly enforced, and if necessary other laws enacted looking to the encouragement of this profitable industry.—T. F. Peck, Commissioner of Agriculture.

COLDS ARE OFTEN MOST SERIOUS—STOP POSSIBLE COMPLICATIONS.

The disregard of a cold has often brought many a regret. The fact of sneezing, coughing, or a fever should be warning enough that your system needs immediate attention. Certainly loss of sleep is most serious. It is a warning given by Nature. It is man's duty to himself to assist by doing his part. Dr. King's New Discovery is based on a scientific analysis of colds. 50c at your druggist. Buy a bottle today. 3.
